10 Years and Counting...

International Archaeology Day (IAD) has been a free public event in Colorado for 13 years, and since 2022 we've welcomed over 1,200 participants annually.

About IAD

Exhibitors provide demonstrations, hands-on activities, and informational displays about archaeology, history, and cultural sites throughout Colorado. Lectures are offered each year by professionals in history and archaeology.

Why Us

Community Connections brings communities together through cultural heritage experiences. Colorado Preservation, Inc. is a nonprofit historic preservation organization that works with communities and individuals statewide to save their historic places through its preservation services department, annual Saving Places Conference and Colorado's Most Endangered Places Program. Together we create a partnership that promotes stewardship and inclusivity throughout Colorado.
